

ADINA POLOCROSSE WORLD CUP 2019 DAILY HIGHLIGHTS & RESULTS – SATURDAY APRIL 27

Aussies favourites to win the World Cup!

South Africa have clawed their way back to make it into the Championship World Cup Final against Australia, due to be played Sunday April 28 at 2pm as the closing match of the Adina Polocrosse World Cup.

In today's semi finals South Africa was too strong for Zambia, proving that they deserve their world number one ranking and a position in the championship final. Meanwhile, Australia remain undefeated after they ran away with a 14-point lead on New Zealand, making them favourites for the 2019 World Cup title.

After what has been an unpredictable week of competition, it turns out that two of the top ranked countries will fight for the title.

Please see below the results and highlights from day six of the Adina Polocrosse World Cup 2019.

Harry: Luke Brandon with a super goal from the baseline in chukka #8.

WHAT'S ON TOMORROW

Ross Shepherd's predictions for tomorrow's finals:

ZIM v USA: ZIM to win, a more experienced international team. Sophie sergeant is a world class player and will be a key player for ZIM.

ZAM v NZ: NZ have a good pool of horses, and a good women's combination with Beth Peaker and Kyla Hill, also in the men's with Beau Moore and Jason White. The class of those combinations will see NZ home.

AUS v S.A: Heart says AUS, I think AUS will win due to the combinations developed during their World Cup campaign. The SA players and coach are under pressure to develop their combinations overnight. I don't write them off. Good luck to both teams - may the best team win
